

BRITAIN DECLARES
EMBARGO SHUTTING
OUT RUSSIAN GOODS

80% of Britain's Normal
Imports Are Affected
EFFECTIVE IN ONE WEEK
Privy Council Meets in Extra-Ordinary Session

(By International News Service)
LONDON, England, Apr. 19.—An embargo on Soviet goods effecting 80 per cent of Britain's normal imports from Russia was clamped down by the British government today in reprisal for the imprisonment of two British defendants in the Metropolitan Vickers spy trial in Moscow.

Effective one week from today, the embargo will serve to paralyze Anglo-Russian trade. The list of imports falling under the ban comprises the principal imports from Soviet Russia into the United Kingdom.

The week of grace was provided in order to permit importation of goods already ordered by British firms or in transit.

Making good the government's threat to strike in swift retaliation if any of the British defendants in the sensational Metropolitan Vickers case were convicted and sentenced, the Privy Council met in extraordinary session at Windsor Castle to enact the embargo.

Gathering in King George's private audience chamber, the members of the council swiftly reviewed the trial and its results and consequences. They then drew up the embargo decree which King George signed without hesitation.

The embargo became official the moment King George affixed his signature. Parliament previously had passed an enabling act empowering the government to take this drastic measure of expressing its disapproval of what it termed, unwarranted and unjustified prosecution of British employees of the Metropolitan Vickers Company.

The text of the embargo proclamation, published in the London Gazette, the official government publication listed the following imports as falling under the ban: butter, wheat, barley, oats, maize-in-grain, poultry, game, raw cotton (including unmanufactured cotton waste and unbleached cotton linters), petroleum, oils, wood and timber (including articles manufactured wholly or partly of wood.)

Events Arranged For By The Harriman Ladies' Aid

Regular meeting of Ladies' Aid, Harriman M. E. Church, was conducted last evening in the church basement.

A decision was reached to conduct a doughnut sale, May 3rd, in the basement, the last sale sponsored until fall. May 16, there will be a progressive social, when their guests will be the Senior Brotherhood, members of the church, Young Matrons' Society, and members of the Junior Brotherhood over 12. The committee consists of Mrs. Lillian Borchers, chairlady; with Mrs. Nellie Combs as assistant.
Refreshment committee: Mrs. Elsie Lovett, chairlady, Mrs. Edna Wilkinson, Mrs. Sara Cooper. A silver offering will be taken.

The idea of a "peanut friend" was also originated last evening. Each person drew a nut bearing a name, thereby accepting that person as her friend, without disclosing her own identity.
Then upon all visits out of town, holidays, etc., the drawer will send a card to the one whose name she has drawn and sign "Your Peanut Friend." At the Christmas party she will bring a gift to her friend, when all identities will be revealed.

Following business an Easter bonnet social was held. A grand march took place, with Mrs. Margaret Hunter and Mrs. Van Lenten, as judges.
Mrs. Nellie Barnfield and Mrs. Lillian Borchers received favors for the most original; bean carrying contest was won by Miss Elizabeth Ferguson;
name writing game, Miss Dorothea Barr; "Yes" bean game, the between Mrs. M. Barr and Miss Nellie Baumfolk.

Young Matrons Society members were guests. Hostesses were Mrs. William Wilkinson and Mrs. Lillian Richardson. Refreshments were served.

Hunts Kidnaped Son

John (Jake the Barber) Factor (left), is shown with Captain Daniel Gilbert, of Chicago, as they continued their efforts to get in touch with the kidnapers of Factor's son, Jerome, 17, who was kidnaped and held for $50,000 ransom. Factor, who is fighting extradition to England, where he is accused of murdering Britons of millions in stock deals, says he cannot pay the ransom.

FAREWELL SERVICES
PLANNED FOR PASTOR

Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Hess Will Be Bid God-Speed To Saskatchewan

LEAVING S. LANGHORNE

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Apr. 19.—
Farewell services will be held at Oak-lithurst Chapel, Sunday, April 30th, for the Rev. and Mrs. Raymond C. Hess, who will leave soon for the Canadian Northwest to carry on religious work in a wide area.

At both services on the 30th, the Rev. and Mrs. Hess will give messages on the general topic "The Canadian Northwest Calls." They will relate many of their thrilling adventures in that land during their former ministry there, and will describe fully, the interesting work it will be their privilege to do. It is the desire of this young couple, as they leave for the lonely field in Saskatchewan, to take the inspiration of seeing many of their friends and well-wishers from the local field, gathered to bid them Godspeed.

The Rev. Hess tendered his resignation from Oaklithurst Chapel the early part of this month. Rev. Hess and wife came here from White Plains, N. Y., on February 1, 1932.
They state that for a long time they have felt an intense interest in, and burden for, the Great Canadian Northwest, and have been awaiting an opportunity to return there.

THREATEN MILK STRIKE

Reading, Apr. 19.—Milk producers in four states today were notified to attend a conference of milk producers to be held in Philadelphia May 11, in a call issued to Lewis Bentzley, of Perkasie, president of the United Farmers' Protective Association.

Addressing a meeting of the association at Amityville, near here, last night, Bentzley said the meeting will be held in Lithuanian Hall in Philadelphia and will include milk producers from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

He said the idea of organizing a milk strike in the entire northeastern section of the United States will be considered.

He said the association will attempt to eliminate the middleman's profits and pass it on to the farmer and the consumer.

MISSIONARY WOUNDED

Peiping, Apr. 19.—An American missionary worker was wounded when a squadron of 12 Japanese planes bombed the town of Miyun today for the second time in 24 hours, it was stated in a Chinese military communique.
The United States Legation said it was not aware of the presence of any Americans at Miyun. An investigation was begun however in the belief the victim may have been a Y. M. C. A. worker with the Chinese forces.

Only a short while before the new bombing was revealed in a communique signed by General Ho Ying-Ching, Chinese military commander, the Japanese charge d'affaires gave assurance that Japanese aerial raids on the Peiping district would be abandoned. Miyun is approximately 50 miles north of Peiping.

BEGIN JAIL TERMS

Moscow, Russia, Apr. 19.—Imprisoned by a Soviet court for alleged sabotage and spying, two British subjects today began terms behind the walls of the grim Loubyanka Prison. They were William L. MacDonald and William H. Thornton, British employees of the Moscow branch of the Metropolitan Vickers Company, Ltd. They were found guilty of high crimes against the Soviet State by a Russian Tribunal.

Of the six British defendants they were the only ones to draw prison sentences. A. W. Gregory was acquitted after the prosecutor withdrew his charges against him, and three others were ordered deported within three days.

MacDonald pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years, while Thornton got three years.

Allen Monkhous, chief of the Moscow branch, John Cushney and Charles Nordwall were ordered banished.
Cushney escaped imprisonment despite the fact the prosecutor accused him of being "an experienced spy and British agent."

Conviction of Thornton and Mac-Donald will be appealed, Robert Turner, British counsel for the company,
declared.

Monkhous, Cushney and Nordwall will leave for London tomorrow night voluntarily accompanied by Gregory.

DROP MURDER CHARGE;
MAN THEN REARRESTED

Wenonah Motorist is Charged With Involuntary
Manslaughter

TWO BOYS WERE KILLED

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 19.—Harry G.
Whitehouse, 34, of Wenonah, N. J., whose automobile struck and killed two unidentified Negro youths, one about 12 and other about 14, on the Lincoln Highway near Oxford Valley on the morning of April 3, was discharged on a charge of murder but was immediately rearrested on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

The discharge came following a decision made by Judge Calvin S. Boyer, after testimony had been offered in a habeas corpus proceeding to have Whitehouse discharged from prison. A coroner's jury last week directed that the defendant be held for the May term of criminal court on a charge of murder.

Whitehouse was arraigned before Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack.
An effort is being made to have Whitehouse released under $2500 bail.

When Whitehouse's car struck the two unknown youths, who were buried last week, he was with a Philadelphia woman, returning home from a Trenton beer-drinking party, he told Judge Boyer at the habeas corpus hearing.
He claims that lights from another machine blinded his vision.

Soest.

The first act is an evening in early spring; while the two other acts are afternoons, one and two weeks later.
The Harriman Players are expecting large audiences both evenings.

Mechanicsville Farmer Is To Be Given Hearing Today

A farmer of Mechanicsville, Bucks County, John Porro, aged 40, is to be given a hearing today charged with a serious offense by boys who answered his advertisements in Philadelphia newspapers. The hearing is to be held before Justice of Peace Hobensack, Doylestown.

The boys, it is said, were lured to the farm of Porro under the impression he wanted boys to work on his 45-acre farm.

The complaints were investigated by County Detective Russo and yesterday he and Corporal Snyder, State Police, Doylestown, placed Porro under arrest.

Innocent—Freed

Robert E. Coleman, young Atlanta, Ga., salesman, is shown as he left the Stonewall Prison Camp after his release recently. Coleman has served four years of a life term on conviction of the murder of his wife in 1929, when James Starkis, a negro, confessed the crime. On proof of the negro's guilt being produced, Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia immediately ordered Coleman's release.

GIRL WHO SHOT DAD
STICKS TO HER STORY

Formally Arraigned Before
Justice of the Peace
Hobensack

WOUNDS ARE SERIOUS

Sticking to her original story that she shot her father in defense of her mother and brother, Anne Siskar, 18, Plumstead Township, was formally arraigned before Justice of Peace W.
Carlile Hobensack, yesterday afternoon, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill.

"Well, if he does die it will make a lot of trouble for me but mother will be safe," was the comment made by Anne, who Monday night fired five pistol shots at her father, four of which entered his body.

Philip Siskar, 42, the wounded man, is in a critical condition at the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, where Dr. John J. Sweeney declared that Siskar is very weak, and suffers intense pain. One bullet went through his right forearm but three others lodged in his chest and have not been removed.

The shooting took place on the Siskar farm in Plumstead township, two miles from Point Pleasant, following an Easter Monday "home brew party" at the home of a neighbor, where Siskar and his wife Antoinette, 34, daughter Anne and son Paul had been for several hours.

"I saw father and mother fighting in the back yard after we came home from the party," Anne told police.
"Father threw a bucket at mother and mother threw one at him. I was tired of all this argument and when I told them to come in and shut up father gave me a push and then told mother that she would die by his own fist. I yelled, 'Oh no she won't,' and I ran upstairs and got a pistol out of Dad's trunk, loaded it with five bullets and came down stairs.

"Mother and Dad were still arguing.
Little Paul tried to stop them and Dad slapped him across the face. That was too much for me and I started to pull the trigger and pulled until all the shots were fired. Then I ran out of the house and tossed the pistol back of the barn.

"Every holiday Dad got drunk and he was always mean then. I'm not worried about him dying but it would make me a lot of trouble if he does.
He had accused me of improper conduct with a neighbor and that made me mad, too."

PROMULGATE NEW RULES OF COURT;
ADOPT SUCH TODAY

Six Rules in Bucks County
Court Are Ordered
Revoked

SIGNED BY TWO JUDGES

Most Important Changes Have
To Do With Law Practice
In the County

DOYLESTOWN, Apr. 19.—New rules of Court were promulgated and adopted today in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks county and Rules No.
29, 30, 31, 32, 34 and 35a were ordered
revoked.

The order was signed by President
Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Calvin S. Boyer, the new rules going into effect today.

The most important changes have to do with rules in reference to the practice of law in Bucks county. They are as follows:

"Practice in the several Courts Bucks county shall be restricted to those persons learned in the law who have been formally admitted to this Bar by motion in open court, or who may hereafter be admitted in accordance with these rules.

"Admissions to the bar of this court are always at the discretion of the Court, and will be allowed only upon motion of a member of this Bar, in open Court, and after compliance with these rules and the regulations from time to time prescribed by the county board of law examiners in furtherance thereof, and upon recommendation of said Board as evidenced by its certificate.

"The Prothonotary shall not permit any praecipe or other paper to be filed by an attorney unless signed by an attorney who shall have been admitted to practice, and enrolled as above provided.

"Admission pro hac vice shall be,
as of course, upon motion of any member of this Bar retained upon the same side of the case as the applicant, unless cause be shown to the contrary.

"Every applicant for admission to the Bar shall file a written declaration signed by him and satisfy the County Board of Law Examiners (1)
That he has been admitted or is entitled to admission to the Bar of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; (2)
That he is a citizen of the United States, and of full age, and that he is a person of good moral character; (3)
That he has advertised, once a week, for four successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county of Bucks, to be designated by the Board of Examiners, notice of his intention to apply to the Board of Examiners on a specified date for a certificate of admission; (4)
That he intends to permanently maintain his residence and his principal office in this county on his own account, and not as a member or representative of a law firm or corporation located outside of the county of Bucks, and will within one month of his admission open and maintain his principal office therein.

"A failure to maintain his principal office or his residence in Bucks county shall be considered sufficient cause for the Court after such reasonable notice as it may direct, to strike his name from the roll upon the recommendation of the County Board of Law Examiners.

"Provided that this rule shall have no application to members of the Bar admitted to practice in this county, prior to the adoption of Rule of Court;
but a maintenance of either a bona fide residence or principal office in Bucks County shall be considered as to them a sufficient compliance with this rule.

"Members admitted prior to the adoption of this rule, who neither maintain their principal office nor residence in the County of Bucks, on recommendation of the County Board of Law Examiners, and after such reasonable notice as the Court shall direct, shall have their names stricken from the roll."

A PROMISING PLAN

The coming conference in Washington between President Roosevelt and Premier MacDonald on matters relating to world disarmament and economic recovery will be only one of several similar talks with foreign representatives, according to Washington.

Europe admittedly is looking to the United States to take the lead in breaking the disarmament deadlock and in bringing the world back to economic normalcy. President Roosevelt apparently is prepared to assume the role and is ready to make suggestions which he believes will prove valuable in these undertakings.

It presumably will be the purpose of the Washington talks to lay the groundwork for what it is hoped will be accomplished in the more formal conferences on the two subjects. The President's special ambassador in Europe, Norman H. Davis, now is engaged in visiting the various countries to make arrangements for these to send representatives to Washington to consult with Mr. Roosevelt.

The reported plan contains much promise. Frank and intimate discussions between the President and foreign representatives ought to prove valuable in smoothing the way to the main objectives. It is inevitable that obstacles will arise, however. Foreign viewpoints are not likely to coincide, on all matters, with those of the United States. But the chances of composing these differences will be much better if they be threshed out in private talks such as Mr. Roosevelt proposes and which are expected to get the approval of the foreign nations affected.

NEW GOLD RUSH

Gold rushes in olden times were started by the discovery of rich deposits of yellow dirt. This generation has seen several started by unemployment.

Thousands of men and women have gone into the hills because they have nothing else to do and can eke out a living with the pick and pan. In three states alone there are 3,000 placer miners, mostly amateurs. A few may strike it rich; it is too bad all cannot.

Echoes of the historic days of gold are heard from the mining country. Vigilance committees have been organized to deal with claim jumpers, the villains of the dime novel days. Prospectors are being grub-staked by merchants and others willing to speculate a few hundreds on a long chance. And out of the mountains come rumors of nuggets and bonanzas.

The reason this gold rush seems devoid of glamour, adventure and romance is because there are no hostile Indians to fight, no trackless deserts to cross or unknown mountains to penetrate, no wagon trains and no picturesque characters taken out of story books of the Wild West. Time adds the veneer of romance and adventure. A hundred years from now the placer miners of 1932 may take the place of the forty-niners.

According to our public monuments, all geniuses have one thing in common: baggy knees.

If you have a curiosity to see how your friends' garments look in the back, have a little bad luck.

"MARY FAITH"

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Faith and Kimberley Farrell have been engaged for some time. Mary Faith, beautiful young orphan, gives up her position as secretary to Mark Nesbit when Kim sets their wedding date. His attitude changes brusquely when his mother objects. The latter treats Mary Faith coldly. Heartbroken, Mary Faith returns to her office and breaks the news to her co-workers. Mark, taken ill, has Mary Faith, driven to his country home, daily, for two weeks. He tells her of his love for her. She halts him, saying she will never love anyone as she did Kim. While in a jewelry store with Mark, selecting a Christmas ring for his sister, Mary Faith meets Kim with a girl. Next morning, Kim calls at Mary Faith's boarding house. He assures her of his love and proposes immediate marriage. Mary Faith melts in his arms. Mary Faith tells Mark she is leaving to marry Kim. After a hasty marriage, Mary Faith and Kim drive to his aunt's house in a neighboring town. For two weeks they live their honeymoon in ecstasy. They return to town and find Kim's mother ill. Kim's aunt is present. Mary Faith is called a "Puritan" by Kim's friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, at a Sunday night party when she refuses to play cards or dance. Kim dances with Claire.

CHAPTER XVIII

Claire put both of her arms around Kim and closed her eyes as they danced. She was a little girl and her head came just to Kim's shoulder. It looked very bright against the dark blue of his coat.

Sitting in a corner of the blue davenport, watching her, Mary Faith began to feel dull and uncomfortable and out of place. She knew that she had nothing in common with these friends of Kim's. Claire had told her that she was "funny" and "old-fashioned" because she wouldn't play cards on Sunday.

"What she meant was that I'm slow and narrow-minded," Mary Faith said to herself. "But if I am, so was Kim until just lately."

In the days of their engagement Kim had never been much of a drinker or card player. Certainly he never had played cards for money.

"What are you looking so melancholy about, Mary Faith?" Jack Maldon came in from the kitchen with a tray of ice and glasses and set it on the mantelshelf.

"Aren't we going to play bridge?" he asked, and dropped down beside her on the sofa.

"No. I don't play cards on Sunday. . . I'm sorry."

"Would you like to dance?"

Mary Faith shook her head and tent him a troubled apologetic smile. "I don't even dance on Sunday, Jack. I'm afraid I'm a terrible sport."

"No," he said gravely. "I think you're all right. . . I get a little tired of doing things all the time, myself. It's a relief just to sit and talk and look at the fire sometimes, isn't it? Even if it's just gas-log."

At ten o'clock Kim and Mary Faith went home.

"Well, what do you think of the Maldons?" Kim asked as soon as they were out of the little flat. "Wasn't the word 'pep' just coined for Claire? She's a dandy girl, isn't she?"

"Isn't she pretty?" Mary Faith answered him with a question.

She was never going to let Kim know that she did not like Claire Maldon and wasn't at ease when she was with her. She was going to accept all of his friends and make them welcome in her home. . . . She was going to make life peaceful and pleasant for him always.

"I enjoy going up to their flat more than any place I know," Kim was saying slowly and a bit thickly. "There's always the makings of a good time there. Claire sure does know how to do things, doesn't she? Wasn't that a slick little supper she got up?"

"Delicious. . . . But I wish you wouldn't drink, Kim. You never need to drink."

Sitting in a corner of the blue davenport, Mary Faith began to feel dull and uncomfortable and out of place.

"I don't drink now," he said. "Not what you could really call drinking."

The next morning Aunt Ella packed up her things and went home to Garrettsville.

"I'm doing it a-purpose," she told Mary Faith in her sharp, kindly way. "If Amelia has to depend on you to take care of her for a few days she won't be so high-and-mighty with you. You and she will get to be pretty good friends if there's nobody but the two of you in the house all day—so I'll just move myself out of the way and give you a try."

What Aunt Ella lacked in English she made up for in good hard common sense.

All that week Mary Faith took care of Mrs. Farrell. She made her bed, brought her her meals of chicken broth and milk toast and gave her the medicine that Dr. Thatcher prescribed for her.

Dr. Thatcher had been the Farrell's family doctor ever since Kim's babyhood. He was a tall, broad-shouldered man with a heavy, handsome face and iron-gray hair. Mary Faith liked his deep, low voice and his air of authority.

"He's a widower," Mrs. Farrell told her, "and they say that half the nurses in town have their caps set for him. But I doubt that he'll ever marry again—and if he does it'll be some woman his own age he'll pick. I imagine."

Every morning, when she was expecting him, she would sit up in bed, brushing her thick hair, winding it around her head in a coronet braid that was very becoming to her, and powdering her face. Once Mary Faith came into the room and found her rubbing violet toilet water into the palms of her hands.

"Please don't get it into your head that I'm fixing myself up because the doctor's coming," she said sharply. "I just happen to like a little perfume now and then. It makes the air in the room seem so fresh."

On Friday Dr. Thatcher told her that she was so much better he wouldn't have to come to see her any more, and on Saturday she got out of bed.

Mary Faith sent for her trunks and her cedar chest that afternoon and she unpacked them while Mrs. Farrell sat on the living room couch and showed her where to hang the

Simon etching and the bookshelves. "I thought my mother would raise Cain when you brought your things into the house," Kim said the next morning when Mary Faith brought him his coffee. "She would have, too, if you hadn't asked her where to put everything and kidded her along the way you did."

"I wasn't kidding her, Kim. I just want her to feel that she and I are partners. Women work together in offices without quarreling and there's no reason why they shouldn't do it in houses. You'll see that she and I will get along all right, if you just give us time."

Mrs. Farrell said that she felt shaky after her illness, and she spent most of the next week reading the books that Mary Faith had brought from Mrs. Puckett's. She sat all day in her easy chair at the front window, with her feet in her little stool, lost to the world in the pages of "The Duchess of Wrexhe or Clayhanger."

All that week Mary Faith had the flat to herself. And to the work in it she brought the same neatness and deftness that she had given to her work in Mark Nesbit's office. But she enjoyed it as she never had enjoyed office work. She took a keen pleasure in the polishing of silver, the washing and ironing of the bed-dragged kitchen curtains, the mixing of a salad dressing.

She had a system, too. Kim was usually out of the house by quarter to nine, and nine o'clock found her in the kitchen washing the breakfast dishes. The damp gray dishcloth disappeared from its nail under the kitchen sink and a brand-new dish mop took its place. Burnt matches no longer lay scattered on the floor under the gas range. The tea towels were washed out after every meal and hung on a line on the back porch.

After lunch she read or rested for an hour or two. Then she took a bath and dressed herself for the rest of the day, carefully brushing her dark hair and powdering her face, making herself as attractive as she could for Kim's eyes. Along about four she would walk down to Kilbane's grocery and market at the corner and buy the things for dinner.

Things look different in COLD BLACK TYPE

"I HEAR," said the friend, "that you have just made $50,000 in the insurance business."

"Right—except for one or two slight particulars. It was real estate—not insurance. It was $75,000, not $50,000. And I didn't make it—I lost it!"

Has it ever happened to you that something you've told an acquaintance comes back, after many days, so distorted that you hardly recognize it? The spoken word so changes and colors much that we say, that by the time it passes many lips only the skeleton of truth remains.

But how different it is with the printed word! That is why you can trust the advertisements. Had you thought of it that way? Because the manufacturer and merchant are compelled to be accurate in type, you know that the quality of soap, ginger ale, clothing, butter or furniture you buy is as standardized as the calendar. It's all the manufacturer and retailer claim for it. It has to be!

Read the advertisements. Read them carefully, critically. Read them for profit. Read them knowing that the truth pays . . . you and the advertiser!

It pays to read all advertisements in this paper

RED ARROW AUCTION

THURSDAY, APRIL 20TH

ITALIAN MUTUAL AID HALL

ANOTHER EVENING OF FUN AND BARGAINS!
DON'T MISS IT!
Auction Starts Promptly at 8 o'clock

Suggestions from an Experienced Prospector

1. Remind everyone you know of the value of Red Arrow Money and Stubs. It may take a while to make your friends "Arrow-minded," but there's nothing like a friendly reminder to get people into the habit of saving Red Arrow Money for you. And if you know of someone who is buying a suit, a pair of hose, a chair or an automobile, for goodness sake, cultivate him! Don't forget, too, to throw in a good word for the Red Arrow Places.

2. Follow up. Once you have gathered Arrows, go back for more. If possible, do this systematically. Have certain times to call on your prospects.

3. Additional Arrows. Take time out to write a letter, a poem, or if need be, an opera. You get Arrows for them. Furthermore, do it as often as Old Timer will let you.

4. Keep your enthusiasm up. No matter what happens to dampen your ardor, keep the old chin up. Don't be down-hearted. Keep on smiling and keep on bringing in the Arrows.

—Daughis Club of Eastern Star.

MY MISSION

I'm Red Arrow Money,
Watch me grow;
Here a little, there a little,
Row on row.

My mission is to help you,
When tight places you are in.
Those who keep on going,
Are just sure to win.

So up and at it sisters,
And let the Arrows fly,
You're sure to be the victors,
If you try, try, try.

SPORTS

OPENER IS WON BY IX. OF THE BRISTOL HIGH

By Oscar Corn
After being forced to cancel three games due to unfavorable weather, the Bristol High nine finally were favored by "Old Sol" and "Lady Luck" or what have you, yesterday, when they smacked the Bensalem High team hard for a 9 to 2 victory. The game was played at the Bensalem ball park.

This game was the first of the season for the local team but the third for Bensalem. Therefore at the beginning of the game Bensalem took the lead and had the upper hand. It didn't take the Cardinal and Gray "fly chasers" long to hit their stride and show some real ball playing. During the game both starting pitchers, Wright of Bristol and Scott of Bensalem, were taken out, while Blondell of Bensalem was hit just as hard. Firce of Bristol did a very good job, striking out nine men.

After Bristol had been put down by a fly and a double play in the first inning Bensalem pushed over a run after Severns hit a double which was followed by another made by Lukens.

In the third canto Bristol got their first score. With two down Gibson was walked and stole second. Berry singled to centerfield and Gibson scored. In the fifth and sixth innings Bristol scored while Bensalem scored another home run in the sixth. However in the seventh Bristol made a four run rally.

On Manzo's double Hibbs scored; on Flatch's sacrifice, Sagolla scored. Finally both Manzo and Rockhill scored on Firce's hit.

The final results of this game shows that Bristol High has hitting power, as well as good fielding and pitching, which spells a successful season.

Tomorrow afternoon at the high school field, the Bristol High track team will meet their up-river rivals, Morrisville, in a dual meet. The crack Cardinal and Gray relay team will run. It is composed of Niendorf, Bornice, Gibson and Morse.

PLENTY OF FIREWORKS WHEN TWO TEAMS MEET

By Les Conklin
(L. N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, April 19—(INS)—There will be plenty of fireworks and choice repartee when the champion New York Yankees and Washington Senators meet at the capital April 23 for the first time this season.

When these lads get together they will need little or no exhortation to heed baseball's officials' warning against too much friendliness on the playing field. Players of both clubs, in fact, will be out to obey his instructions to the very letter.

The reason? Well, in the first place, the boys will be bearing down because the Senators are the main obstacle in the path of the Yankees to another pennant, but that is only part of the story. There has been bad blood between the two teams for some time, and recent developments were not such as would ease the strain.

The trouble started in the middle of the 1932 season when Bill Dickey, Yankee catcher, got tangled up with Carl Reynolds, hard-hitting outfielder of the Nationals, in a game at the capital. Reynolds came into the plate like a freight train and knocked Dickey down, whereupon the infuriated Yankee catcher got up and let fly a wallop that broke Carl's jaw. Reynolds was forced to stay out of the line-up for many weeks, and you bet all the in-jay in Piccadilly that the Nats haven't forgotten that incident.

The next blast was a verbal one, and it was plenty hot. Soon after young Joe Cronin was appointed manager of the Washington club, Babe Ruth ventured the opinion that Joseph was far too immature and callow to be entrusted with the management of a pennant contender. Now some of the veterans on the Senators may privately agree with the home run maestro's observation, but Joe doesn't. So he and most of his players will be out to make Babe eat his words when the Yanks come to town.

The Babe also is responsible for the latest blast from the Yankee camp. Although most of the experts figure Washington as the Yankees' most dangerous rival, Ruth and some of the other members of the champions do not, and make no bones about saying so.

"Some of those guys ain't so hot," opines the Babe. "That Whitehill, he never bothers us much. That Stewart, he gets so hot under the collar when the ump misses one, he starts throwin' em right down the alley and it's just too bad. Once he starts arguin' with the ump, he'll beat himself every time."

"Schulte? All he ever done was break a leg. So there's three guys they got in trades last Winter that ain't worryin' us. And I don't think that sending Sam West to the Browns was such a smart move. There's a guy that saved a lotta ball games for 'em last year, and they'll miss him."

Most of the other Yanks think the A's, not the Senators, are the club to beat. Manager Joe McCarthy, however, figures Washington as his main rival. And you won't catch Marse Joe knocking any players, either. He's leaving all that to such accomplished jockeys of the pine boards as Ruth, Gomez, and other chin-musicians on the club. When they start throwing wisecracks at the Senators, the fur is sure to fly.

Buy Crackers and Wafers That BOOST BRISTOL

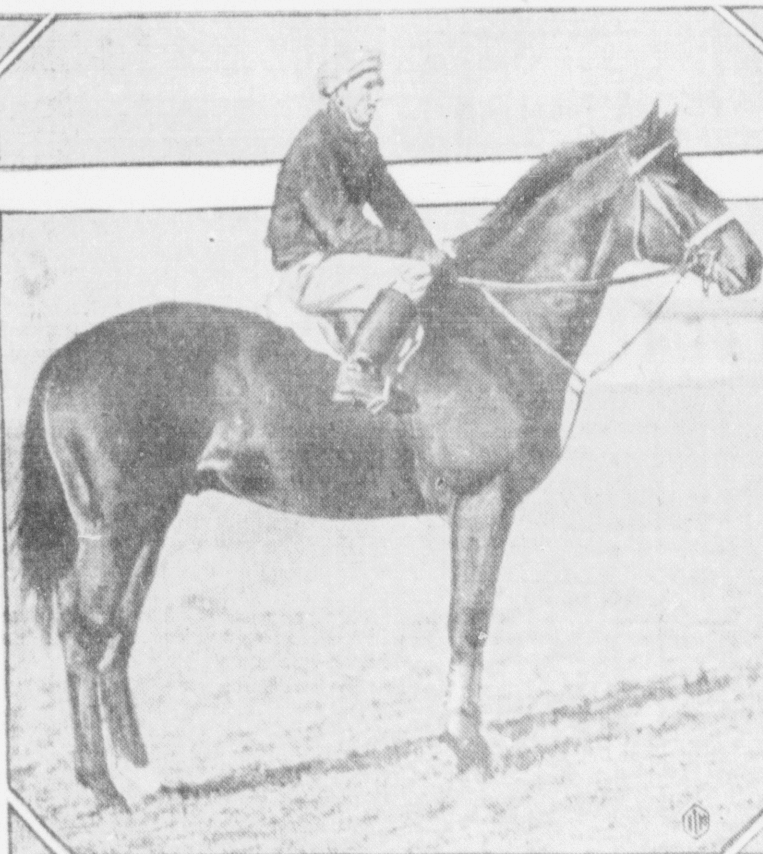

You can help the town you live in whenever you buy cookies--whenever you buy groceries, clothes, a car, or anything you need. Here's how:

Suppose, for instance, you need crackers today. You will notice that grocer-members of the HOME TOWN LEAGUE display Ivins products prominently. Why? They know that the Ivins Baking Company makes good crackers. But they also know that Ivins crackers are made from local farm and dairy produce; that Ivins crackers are advertised in local papers; and that Ivins distribution is made by local wage-earners.

These are the things that members of the HOME TOWN LEAGUE are looking for. These are the reasons why this newspaper has sponsored such a group. These are the selfish reasons why YOU should deal with merchants who display this blue - and - white emblem on their windows. Every time you help the town you live in, you help yourself.

HOME TOWN LEAGUE THE BRISTOL COURIER

Hope of Triple Derby Winner

On this sleek bay colt, with the unromantic name of "Boilermaker," E. R. Bradley, famous Blue Grass breeder, pins his hopes of winning the Kentucky Derby for the fourth time, a record, if achieved, that will defy duplication. Bradley won the Churchill Downs classic last year with Burgoo King, in 1926 with Bubbling Over, and in 1921 with Behave Yourself.

After Kentucky Derby Laurels

Purchased for $550 as a yearling in the fall Kentucky sales by Mrs. Willie Crump, wife of the former jockey, "Head Play," has come to the fore as an outstanding candidate for premiere honors in the Blue Grass classic to be run at Churchill Downs on May 6. "Head Play" gained his reputation by victories in the Cincinnati Trophy at Latonia last July and in the Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap the following month, when he showed speed of a dazzling order.
